FIRE BEHAVIOR FORECAST

FORECAST NUMBER 39	TYPE OF FIRE Wildland Fire

WEATHER

RED FLAG WARNING FOR HOT, DRY AND WINDY CONDITIONS TODAY AND TOMORROW

GENERAL FIRE BEHAVIOR

Fuel moisture will decrease in response to hot and dry conditions. Winds will be sufficient to drive active fire behavior. Most surface fire with moderate intensity will likely have the ability to transition into the canopy, resulting in occasional torching. Upslope crown runs will be possible on moderate to steep slopes.

Grass – Surface rates of spread 60-80 chains per hour with flame lengths 6-12 feet

Shrub – Surface rates of spread 60-80 chains per hour with flame lengths 12-20 feet

Timber – Surface rates of spread 8-15 chains per hour with flame lengths 5-10 feet

Probability of Ignition 70-80%

Maximum spotting distance 0.5 mile

SPECIFIC FIRE BEHAVIOR

Branch 41 – Infrared has shown no heat near the perimeter for the past week. Reburn or isolated pockets of heat cannot be completely ruled out, but no fire behavior issues are expected in Branch 41.

Branch 43 – Potential for very active fire behavior remains if fire gets established outside of control lines. With strong winds out of the NE today, becoming stronger and gusty tonight and tomorrow, control lines could be tested over the weekend from Mill Creek to Big Signal Peak just over the Zone Break.

AIR OPERATIONS

Conditions expected to be mostly favorable for air operations early, but winds will become gusty in the late afternoon.

SAFETY

Fire weakened trees and snags become exceptionally dangerous during strong and gusty winds.

On average, UPS drivers experience only one accident for every two million miles driven, while the average U.S. motorist will experience nine accidents over the same distance - using statistics supplied by the National Safety Council. UPS has more than 2,300 drivers who each have more than 25 years of accident-free driving.

Remember

Drive safe for yourself, the ones you love and everyone around you. Remember the other driver has family and love ones too.
