● Drop Point

The diagram consists of two parts. On the left, there is a red graphic element shaped like a capital letter 'L', where the vertical stroke is longer than the horizontal one. This shape is commonly used in safety signage to denote an 'Uncontrolled Fire Edge'. To the right of this symbol, the text 'Uncontrolled Fire Edge' is written in a large, bold, black sans-serif font. Below this, there is a solid black horizontal line. To the right of this line, the text 'Completed Line' is written in a large, bold, black sans-serif font.
