The Management Action Points (MAPs) identified on the map serve as decision points for potential initiation of the three level evacuation system (Ready, Set, Go). The MAPs do not automatically trigger a response; rather they provide a framework for the Incident Management Team and local cooperators to discuss the need for implementation of the three levels. The decision to initiate any evacuation level will be based upon the observed and forecasted weather and fire behavior. Active fire behavior and rapid fire growth may create the need to quickly elevate the evacuation levels. Incremental fire growth in advance of favorable weather and occurring late in the fire season may reduce the need to implement evacuation notices. The local Sheriff's Office holds the authority to initiate a level three evacuation.
