Comments /notes on tonight's mission and this interpretation: Shapefiles are projected in NAD 1983 UTM zone 13. I began interpretation with the fire perimeter extracted from the NIFS at 20201030 2100. The growth this period occurred in the north and northwest sections of the heat perimeter. The growth to the north, towards Big Creek, occurred in numerous small areas. The areas of growth to the NW were larger. The fire grew to the NW by 1/4 mile along Roaring Forks (Trail?). Another grew to the west by .1 miles along Roaring Fork Creek. 2 areas of heat were detected separated from the main heat perimeter. One, located north of Roaring Fork Creek, was approximately 300 feet west of the fire perimeter and the other, located south of Roaring Fork Creek, was approximately 800 feet west of the fire perimeter The fire contained isolated and scattered heat and one small area of intense heat.
